

Welcome to our new website...

where orienteering meets open source technology in our new Drupal content management system. What you see here is just the beginning. We have plans to integrate many additional features including event site weather forecasts, photo and video galleries, online event registration, detailed split analysis, volunteer sign-up and tracking, forums, special access for event directors and course setters, and so much more. So grab a cup of coffee, sit back, and enjoy the new site. And when you're all done and have seen all that is to be seen, drop the group of folks who worked so hard on this a note of thanks.
